In lieu of cartoon we print to-day a cture of the cartoonist, J. Frank Van Sant, from a pencil sketch, done by himself in some idle moment and thrust among loose papers on his desk, where it was found yesterday, after his death. Pressed by the hard necessity of afternoon journalism to execute in an hour the idea upon which an artist would usually work for a day, his pencil had scant opportunity to declare its genius, and yet the touch of genius was never lacking from its work. His olss will be felt scarcely more by those who have been his associates for so many years than by the general public whom he has so long entertained and instructed, and of whose interests his pencil has been so vigilant a defender.

Manager Palmer's Plans Discussed -- Empire Souvenire Create a Scusation.

Two gentlemen stood at a point or upper Broadway Saturday where mos theatrical pedestrians were obliged to pass them. By this means they captured a good deal of priceless information. Their principal object seemed to be to discover Manager A. M. Palmer's plans, and within a period of five minutes they heard a great dea about them.

"I've just learned," remarked one pedestrian, "that Palmer is going to do 'Heart of Maryland' after 'The Fatal

'Heart of Maryland' after 'The Fatal Card.' He has got scenery painted, $2,500 paid out and—well, the deal is absolutely settled."

The two gentlemen seemed relieved. A weight had evidently been lifted from their minds. An instant later another luminary appeared. "The very fellows I wished to meet," said this luminary. "I thought I'd tell you that 'The Heart of Maryland' deal is off. Palmer changed his mind five minutes ago. He is just signing contracts with Olga. Netherscie for a Spring season at his place."

violating the law. He also expressed his disapproval of strikes. "They are too costly," he said, and too many of the men who sat before him knew too well from their own sad experience what he neant.

At a city church last night there were prayers that Mayor Strong might "be led aright and for the benefit of all the people." That prayer is in the proper spirit. Are those enthusiasts who rail at the Mayor for his understood position on the Sunday excise question sure that they quite enter into the "all the people" part of it?

Netherscle for a Spring season at his place."
The two gentlemen burst into wrinkles of perplexity, and were about to turn away when a dapper little gentleman approached. He was inclined to be insysterious, but he was anxious to talk. "Don't say I told you," he began, "but you can gamble on what I say. Falmer was only bluffing about 'Heart of Maryland,' and his contemplated deal with Nethersole is off. It has been off at least three minutes. The fact is he is going to do "Trilby" in New York. He decided upon this thirty seconds ago. It's a fact." And then the two of the contemplated that they quite enter into the "all the people" part of it?

It is not in my diary, and the excuse I suggest is ago. It's a fact." And then the two of the contemplated that they did not the most of the contemplate on the sunday. Had they stayed longe, they might have heard that that they quite enter into the "all the people" part of it?

Beerbohm Tree's plans are not generally known. He is, in reality, his own "advance agent," for his coming season in America is but a tentative one of twelve weeks or so. If Tree finds that he is popular—and he will surely find that—he will devote his entire next season to this country, under the directions of Abbey, Schoeffel & Grau, who will then have the almost superhuman task of keeping the tours of Irving and Tree for the clashing point. Tree will probably make a big social hit here. He is a capital talker, and "a prince of good fellows"—to use a hackneyed phrase.
